California Proposition 65 Statement

To Whom It May Concern:

Thank you for your recent inquiry regarding California Prop 65. Proposition 65 (California's The Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act 1986) was updated in August 2018. The major update to the legislation changed what is regarded as a "clear and reasonable" warning. Warning statements under Prop 65 have changed.

According to our legal counsel, industrial products do not require Prop 65 labels. Prop 65 warnings are only required for consumer products and The Electrodyne Company does not sell to the consumer market. Electrodyne products are regulated under the OSHA Hazard Communication Standard. If products are labeled in accordance with Haz.Com/GHS, and they are sold to the industrial market, no Prop 65 warnings are required.

However, we have a duty to inform about Prop 65 chemicals contained in our products so that our customers can apply Prop 65 warnings, if required, for their consumer products. We have updated our SDSs to include the new required Prop 65 language. Prop 65 warnings and information about Prop 65 chemicals contained in Electrodyne products can be found in Section 15 of our SDS.

The above is not to be viewed as legal or regulatory advice. We have simply stated Electrodyne's understanding of Prop 65 as it pertains to our products.

Sincerely,

THE ELECTRODYNE COMPANY
